JUDGE MARTIN UP NEXT FALL FOR REELECTION

Petition To Place City Jurist's Name on Ballot Now Being Circulated

TERM ENDS THIS YEAR

J. A. Wilkins, Former Councilman, Announces Candidacy for Recorder

John R. Martin will seek re-election as judge of the Marion court. He announced his intent today. The petition, requesting his name on the November ballot, has been in circulation for some time, however.

John R. Martin is an official of the court. His term of office expires this year. He has served for more than four years as do the terms of other officials. The result is that petitioners for this office fall with others who are rather than with city officials.

The municipal court here was extended on Jan. 1, 1927, and as a result the four-year term of office will end Jan. 1, 1931. This necessitates petitioning for re-election.

First to Serve

Martin has served as judge of the municipal court for slightly more than three years and is the first person to hold the bench. He will ask for a second term in the coming election.

The municipal court election is openly nonpartisan, that is, candidates are not designated by parties on the ballot. It is difficult, however, to make any judicial election strictly non-partisan. In his political affiliations Martin is a Republican. In his first campaign Judge Martin defeated Attorney J. H. Eymann, Luther Can-field and Homer E. Johnson.

Before being elected to the municipal bench, Judge Martin presided for more than five years. He is a graduate of Ohio Northern university.

Go On By Petition

There will be no primary campaign for the municipal court post. Names of candidates are placed on the ballot for the November election by petition. Three hundred fifty names are required on the petitions.

Whether Martin will be opposed at the election will not be known until the first filing date.

The announcement Wednesday that Martin had declared for two offices caused the local political pot to boil a few more bubbles. "Announcements of candidacy came today from John Martin and J. A. Wilkins.

Wilkins, a former member of city council, will be a candidate for county recorder. In a letter to The Star he declared that he would seek the commissioner of the August 1931 primary as a Republican candidate.

He is the first to announce for this office.

Wilkins retired from city council Jan. 1. Previously he had served as commissioner from the first ward and was defeated last November for president of council by Charles F.
Merkel, a Democrat.

Two Others Out

Two others have definitely stated that they will be in the campaign as

Goes to Death Complaining Electric Chair Dusty; Uses Towel to Clean It

OSSENING, N. Y., Jan. 31—"The least they could have done was to give a man a clean chair."

Those were the words, guards said today, of Michael Solafo, a Brooklyn gunman, just before he was executed.

He was executed last night in Sing Sing prison. After making this remark, Solafo turned around, calmly took a towel from one of the guards and carefully dusted off the death chair.

Solafo was put to death with a Frank Plais for the murder, a year ago, of Sora Graziano and his young wife near Franklin Square, Long Island.

Plais was executed first, going to his death smilingly and calmly, after smoking a cigarette and swagging to the electric chair.

CITY FIREMAN SMOKE VICTIM

C. W. Stafford Temporarily Overcome While Fighting Blaze on W. Center St.

AGED WOMAN RESCUED

Carried from House by Firemen; Another Suffers from Shock

Charles W. Stafford, of 304 Carner av., city fireman at the Central station, was temporarily overcome by smoke, shortly after 1:30 o'clock this afternoon while fighting a fire which did $200 damage to the house in the rear of 207 West Center st.
He quickly revived when carried away from the fire.

Mrs. Susan Freshwater, aged mother of Harry Freshwater, who with his wife, runs a rooming house in the building was carried from an upper story of the house by firemen.
She was slightly injured in the descend but rapidly regained composure when carried away from the fire to a neighboring store.

Suffers from Shock

Mrs. Harry Freshwater was overcome by shock. She was taken to the house of a neighbor, where she was given medical aid and rest.

Among the persons to make a hasty exit from the house when the fire broke out was little Lorraine Freshwater, who recently left City hospital, where he had been treated for a fractured skull sustained in an auto accident.

George Collins, a roomer at the house who was asleep at the time, was aroused and left the house in safety.

Hour's Task for Firemen

Firemen spent the better part of an hour extinguishing the blaze, which apparently originated in the floor of the first story of the house. An overheated furnace pipe was blamed as the cause. A large section of the floor was destroyed.

The building is owned by R. T.
Lewis, but was in charge of Mrs.
Harry Freshwater who conducted the boarding house.

Mob Breaks Up Hearing for Michigan Guardsman

DETROIT, Jan. 31—Sergeant J. Piggione, who shot and killed Stanley Prusnowski, private of the 125th Infantry of the Michigan National Guard, was threatened here today by a crowd which gathered in the office of Leo J. Kawrkie, justice of the peace, where he was hearing examination of the sergeant.

Examination was postponed for a week after the crowd smashed a door and threatened to become violent.
Reserve police entered in the court were able to control the spectators.

To Death Barefoot
A Dwarf Can Kill Safely Flying
An Old Man's Money

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 31—In the Los Angeles August 30, 27 year old, who killed her mother to get her mother's farm, was sentenced to death.

In accordance with the Michigan code, seeking to humiliate and punish more severely those that murder their parents, Augustine will be barefoot to the guillotine.

Interesting historical contrast between the death and that of Joan of Arc, the maid of Orleans. One walks the guillotine barefoot for murder for mother. The other walked clad in armor to the stake, burned alive for being her country.

A New York dwarf only four feet high, Peter Ariza, is sentenced to death for murder.

The modern "automatic" pistol killed Ariza for Peter to kill. In other days when men fought with swords and bows, he would only have been a pest, too small to fight.

Small as a small nation, as small as Hungary, or Holland, or Switzerland, in these days of firing machines this person gas might be the most effective international killer in the modern world.

Conditions of war. A five-pound bomb, when thrown in an airplane might carry a poison gas bomb that would kill 100,000 in a big city.

REPORT CITES VILLAGE MAYOR

Loudonville Executive Charged with Failure To Enter Fines on Docket

OWES $239.45, CLAIM

Other Officials Told To Return Salary Increases Held Illegal

COLUMBUS, Jan. 31—Claims that B. F. Anders, as mayor of the village of Loudonville, Ashland county, failed to enter upon his criminal docket certain fines and costs collected; that in some instances the amounts entered upon the docket were less than the amounts actually collected, and that fines and costs were not deposited, are contained in a report which was made public here today by State Auditor Joseph Tracy.

The report covers an examination of the public records of the village of Ashland county by State Examiner Elmer A. Zook for the period from March 25, 1927, to November 12, 1929.

Declaration that Mayor Anders owed the village $239.45, as fines and costs collected in ordinance cases and owed Ashland county $160.50 as fines and costs collected in state cases, is embodied in the report.

Unable To Account

The report stated that these fines and costs totaling $399 had not been deposited and that the mayor did not enter them on his books. The mayor according to the report, told examiner Zook that he (Anders) was willing to pay these amounts with certain exceptions, but that he was unable to account for "certain" amounts no record was found on his, not being entered on his criminal docket.

Mayor Anders said he was of the opinion that papers relative to these cases "must have been lost or stolen" from his files. The mayor, also, is credited with having stated that it was "just a mistake" in making the entry on the docket in cases where the amounts assessed against, and collected from, defendants were exceeded by the amounts paid, as set forth in affidavits obtained by Examiner Zook from various persons adjudged guilty of violating state laws and village ordinances.

The report credited Anders with paying back $214.45 of the fines and costs collected in ordinance cases and $145 in state cases, leaving $149.55 allegedly unpaid.

His Salary Boost

Charging that they received illegal increases in salaries, the report held that Mayor Anders should return to the village treasury $566.70, that J. J.
Wiedman, village clerk, should return $250, and that C. W. Arnold, village marshal, should return $330.

The report points out that the village council, on Dec. 17, 1927, passed an ordinance increasing salaries.

Examiner Zook claimed that under the Ohio laws, these salary increases could not become effective until the beginning of the new term of these officials, starting on Jan. 1, last.

Holdup To Be Surrendered

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 31—Police today announced that they would surrender John Berger, alias Joe Scott, alias Joe Logan, who was arrested for slapping a bar-keep girl in a night club here in Toledo, Ohio, authorities, where he is wanted on charges of robbery and shooting to kill, during a bank holdup on June 4, 1929.

Glider Flight from Naval Dirigible Is Successful was recorded today.

licensed glider pilot in the United States navy, made a successful flight in a glider released from the U. S. dirigible "Albatross" in an altitude of approximately 3,000 feet over the naval air station here.

New York Snow Melts
12 Inches in Capital

NEW YORK, Jan. 31—Snow which fell steadily during the previous 12 hours had melted today, leaving the streets with only a thin layer.

Other cities did not fare so well.
In Washington 12 inches of snow clung to the streets and roofs.

Snow fell yesterday in Tallahassee, Tulsa and Oklahoma City, and in Pensacola, Jacksonville and other southern cities.

nouncement of the merger of the made sometime today. Details of the proposed combine were practically completed at a conference yesterday

ROPE BREAKS, MAN IS HURLED THROUGH TRAP

Baltimore Negro Has To Be Taken Back on Gallows Second Time

TWO OTHER EXECUTIONS

One Man Sent to Doom on Trap Sprung Through Haymow

BALTIMORE, Jan. 31—John Jackson, 36, negro, mounted the concrete scaffold to the Maryland penitentiary early today to be killed for murdering two negroes.

The trap was sprung and the negro's body fell through the trap, swung momentarily on the end of the rope and fell to the floor. The rope had broken from the ceiling.

Another rope was quickly procured, fastened to the prisoner's neck, and once more his body shot through the trap. It hanged there until a physician said life was extinct. The second hanged Jackson's neck was broken by the first shock.

BOONVILLE, Mo., Jan. 31—Lawrence Mabry, 38, calmly expressing innocence, was hanged from a crudely-assembled gallows erected for the occasion in a barn adjoining the prison of Cooper county jail.

The execution carried out the death sentence assessed against him for the murder of William Busch, law student, at Sedalia during a holdup Feb.
4, 1928.

The trap, placed in the haymow of the barn, was sprung at 9:14 a. m.

Prays Through Night,
Then Dies on Gallows

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 31—After a night of continuous prayer, William Mosley, 34-year-old negro, went to his death on the gallows here today. Mosley was attending during the last drugging hours of the death watch by Father Devilias, the jail chaplain, and a nurse priest.

The trap was sprung at five minutes after six.

Mosley was convicted of murdering his common-law wife, Mildred White, and two white persons.

JUSTICE POLLUTED, PROSECUTOR ASSENTS

First Government Witnesses Called in Seminole Oil Field Rum Conspiracy

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Jan. 31—The first government witnesses were called today in the Seminole oil field liquor conspiracy trial in federal court here to substantiate the opening statement of Assistant United States Attorney Herbert K. Hyde that "the stream of justice was polluted in Pottawatomie county from the constant to the state capital."

State official circles were highly excited over Hyde's assertion, which came wholly without previous indication, that government evidence would show a substantial portion of the huge sum alleged to have been collected by the oil field "rum racketeers" found his way to the state house in Oklahoma City.

The young prosecutor, who before joining the district attorney's office here, was private secretary to United States Senator W. B. Pine of Oklahoma, painted a vivid picture of the prospective evidence.

He promised testimony showing that from the fall of 1928, when the Seminole area began approaching its record as the world's greatest flat oil field, to September, 1929, it was the headquarters of a gigantic liquor manufacturing and distributing system, with huge stills, some of them adjoining grocery stores, and that the system had 375 distilling establishments and truck lines to Oklahoma City and elsewhere.

New Device Enables Deaf To Hear Through Fingers

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 31—The deaf may now hear through their sense of touch by a new electric device invented by Dr. Robert H. Gault, research professor of Northwestern university, Evanston, Ill.

Dr. Gault explained that a group of scientists had been working at the Franklin Institute here.

Dr. Gault has named his device the "tactile hearing."

NEW YORK, Jan. 31—The first cording to Francisco Boggiano, and he should know.

He celebrated his one hundredth birthday last September. Today he was still going strong, thinking about whatever came to mind to do about when a big truck knocked him down.

CANTILLON, FAMOUS BALL PLAYER, DIES

Veteran Who Was in Game Half Century Suffers Re-lapse; in Diamond Uniform 44 Years

HICKMAN, Ky., Jan. 31—Joe Cantillon, famous old time baseball player, manager and umpire, died here today following a paralytic stroke.

Although reported slightly impaired yesterday, the veteran player suffered a relapse last night and early today physicians announced the end was near.

Cantillon rounded out an even half century of organized baseball last season and established a record in national sporting circles.

He was actively connected with a baseball club or league for 50 years, 44 of which he donned a uniform. He began his career in 1879 and had not missed a season until 1923. He managed the Minneapolis club of the American association for 14 years and during that time won four championships. He came from a family of ball players. Five brothers, Michael, Thomas, William, James and Richard, all played ball during their boyhood days in Jonesville, Wis.

Joe was born in Jonesville, Aug.
16, 1861, and played his first professional game with the Minnietons of Jonesville in 1879. He received $60 a month with board for playing second base.

He worked his way up until he was paid $10,000 a year as manager of the Washington club of the American association.

TWINS? OH, HUM!

That's Not Unusual, Says New Haven Father Who Has Greeted 18

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 31—
"It's twins," they told Michael Salzo.

And Mr. Salzo, at once assumed a rather disappointed look. It was revealed today.

For although twins were born yesterday to his 30-year-old wife, giving him a total of 18 children, Salzo proudly announced that his wife had been the mother of two sets of twins, a set of triplets and a set of quadruplets.

Of the 18 children born, only nine are living. The couple was married in 1912.

PLASTER BURNS ARE FATAL TO ARCHITECT

Man Forgets Treatment Used for Backache; Results Fatal

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 31—Frank A. Hays, 63, a well-known architect, died early today in the Jefferson hospital, from burns which were caused by a mustard plaster which he had kept on his back too long.

The cause of his death was one of the most unusual ever to come to the attention of medical men here.

On Jan. 29, Hays was found unconscious and apparently in great pain. A thorough examination revealed his agony apparently was caused by a plaster on his back. Further investigation revealed he had placed the plaster on his back about a week before in an effort to cure a backache. His ailment cured he forgot about the plaster and was burned internally.

NOME, Alaska, Jan. 31—Volunteer rescue workers digging in the snow for the bodies of Lieut. Carl Ben-Edson and Earl Hordland, Arctic fliers, apparently were nearing the objects of their search today with the finding of personal articles belonging to them.

Striking into the ice-covered drifts, natives and crews of three airplanes uncovered a pair of gloves and an aviator's helmet, which was identified as Hordland's.

Charger Walsh Aided by Brewing Interests

BOSTON, Jan. 31—Brewing interests by United States attorneys Frederick H. Tamm and George F. Quinn, who are prosecuting the Alcoholic Beverage Control board against the Boston Beer Co., are aiding the board.

The money Tamm wanted was paid in a fund of $200,000 raised last year under the auspices of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, of which the Constitutional Liberty League was the Massachusetts branch.

The fund was used to pay the expenses of the board from brewmen and brewery interests.

Plans were under way to employ the same tactics to elect a new Democratic majority in the coming elections, Tamm said.

BOY IS HURT IN WRECK OF STOLEN AUTO

In Hospital Here After Crash at Newnan's; Car Stolen Another Car

WRECKED AT PORTSMOUTH

West Virginia Pair Come to Grief in Escapade Following Prayer Service

One Petrus, W. Va. youth, is in City hospital here in serious condition, his companion is in Portsmouth in the hands of the sheriff, and two stolen automobiles are wrecked, as the result of a boyish escapade following a prayer meeting in Petrus, Wednesday night, which both youths attended.

According to the sketches of information received here today, Woodrow Cook, 17, infected Jimmie C.
Acord, 18, to "go for a ride" following the prayer meeting in Petrus.
Acord assented and accompanied his friend, who drove without interruption until he lost control of the car at Newnan's, south of here on Prospect pike, and crashed into a telephone pole yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Information given authorities here by Acord indicates that the car had been stolen in the West Virginia community.

Brought to Marion

Acord was badly cut and bruised in the accident, but Cook escaped with minor injuries. A passing motorist stopped on the youths and brought them to Marion.

Acord was taken to the hospital, weak from loss of blood. His companion stole another car, a Chevrolet belonging to Henry Hankin, Marion rural route No. 8, which was parked at John and Church sts. and died. The car was taken at 4:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon, according to police reports.

Marion police were notified this morning that Cook had been arrested in Portsmouth, where he had wrecked Hankin's car some time last night or early this morning.

Prosecution Probable

J. H. Allen, juvenile officer, was expected to go to Portsmouth this afternoon to return the youth to Marion, where he will be prosecuted for stealing Hankin's car. Police did not learn how badly the car was wrecked, nor if Cook had been injured.

Acord, at City hospital here, has a good chance to recover, according to officials. He is badly cut about the face, his cheek being ripped by glass, and his condition was made worse by profuse bleeding.

EXECUTORS APPEAL RAICHEL'S DECISION

tions of the Marion Masonic Temple Co.

A petition in error was filed with the higher courts today by Attorneys Harold S. Young and J. Malcolm Stearns, who represent the Raichley executors, Harry J. Merchant and Clara C. Smith.

Judge Grant's decision held the executors responsible for the recovery of approximately $22,000 for the benefit of the estate. The majority of this amount was paid attorneys for legal services in connection with a contest of the will by Raichley heirs.

County's School Bus Men Enrolling in License List

Large Majority of Drivers Now Qualified After Taking Examinations: State Inspector Visits Schools, Urging Increased Care To Safeguard Lives

A majority of Marion county drivers are now qualified after taking examinations, according to Mrs. U. S. Jenkins, state inspector of vehicles. She visited schools today, urging increased care to safeguard lives.

Mr. Jenkins visited a number of schools, issuing 14 chauffeur licenses and giving talks to school bus drivers at all schools visited, urging greater safety, and the exercise of caution in transferring children to and from school in buses.

Another important task assumed by Mr. Jenkins in his capacity of Marion and adjoining counties is the investigation of the school buses themselves. The vehicles are checked over, and any mechanical defects are ordered repaired.

The school buses of Marion county are in fairly good condition, Mr. Jenkins reported yesterday. In no instance have the trucks been in need of expensive repairs.

Other Counties Included

In addition to examining the 90 drivers of this county since Tuesday, officials of the auto club have also examined and licensed a number of drivers from adjoining counties, who have no other headquarters where they may secure these licenses. The examination consists of a physical examination by a physician, and the filling out of a questionnaire.

CITY JUDGE UP FOR REELECTION IN FALL

Petition To Place Martin's Name on Ballot Now Being Circulated

Marion county clerk, R. G. Small, has received a petition from a number of citizens, asking that the name of Arthur A. Martin be placed on the ballot for reelection as city judge in the fall.

Another possible candidate for the office is Theodore E. "Ted" Smith. He has not made his name known, however.

The statement made today by the clerk of the county board of elections, advised prospective candidates of the changes in the election laws which will affect the filing of names of candidates. Under the new law, names are required to be filed with the board of elections, and only five names were permitted.

At the board of elections at least 60 days before the August primary. The primary will be held August 5 and the last day for filing names is June 4. This requirement is a general registration of all voters in the county will be held some time before the result of another change in the election laws. When the registration will be held has not yet been decided by state officials, according to the clerk.

After the next general election there will be no registration of voters at the voting places. Those who were registered at the next general election will be permanent, and those who were not registered at the next election will be required to register at the election.

MAN FREE AGAIN

After Nolle Prosequi First Degree Murder Charge: Evidence Insufficient

NEW PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 31.—Frank Tomelotti, 34, of Philadelphia, was freed today following action of Judge E. L. Lindsay, who held the first degree murder indictment which was pending against him, upon the ground of insufficient evidence.

The indictment was returned Jan. 17.

Prosecuting Attorney Kubus, held the state did not have enough evidence to convict Tomelotti on any charge.

Tomelotti was held for the killing of Charles Orlando Eggen 30 of Philadelphia, who was found dead on the street on November 27, 1931.

The freed man was arrested Jan. 2 by Police Chief Martin Myers at the home of his mother.

A question that suggests itself to many is this:

Why not modify restrictions against European immigration and allow the country to be built up in the future as it has been in the past, by admitting, enterprising youth from European countries?

Alfred G. MacDonald, son of British labor Prime Minister, is on his way here from Chicago, setting a good example by doing so.

The intellectual young man intends to study Hollywood and western architecture.

He will find in Los Angeles, San Francisco, Seattle and other coast cities much worth studying in the way of architecture.

In Hollywood he will find enough to keep him studying all the rest of his life.

BLOCK POWER PLANS TO CONTROL FALLS

Conservationists Win Battle To Build Fine Memorial To George Washington

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Conservationists of the nation and congress today had won half their battle to prevent high power interests from obtaining control of the Great Falls of the Potomac near the national capital and thus blocking an ambitious program to build one of the world's finest memorials to George Washington, the nation's first president.

The victory came with passage of the Cranston bill by the house, authorizing the expenditure of $7,000,000 for land along the Potomac river for park purposes and a memorial boulevard from Mount Vernon to Great Falls.

The bill was sent on to the senate, where it is expected that conservationists will demand amendments for overhauling power interests from Great Falls.

The fight has attracted the interests of city planners and advocates of conservation of national beauty spots in all parts of the country.

Representative Cranston, Republican of Michigan, who led the fight for the bill, charged that the chief opposition came from high power interests, who already have applications before the federal power commission for use of Great Falls.

CUT IN BATTLESHIPS

PARLEY'S ONLY HOPE

Stabilization of Other Categories Also Stands Out as Result of Parley

BY GEORGE R. HOLMES

Marion Star Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 31.—Reduction in battleships and stabilization of other categories at about the present level—these stood out today as the principal achievements of the London naval arms conference can hope to obtain.

Ten days of the most intensive work among the delegates of the other four powers have convinced the Americans that no more can be hoped for at the present conference. If they can accomplish this much there will be general satisfaction notwithstanding the fact that such results would represent a considerable compromise from President Hoover's high hopes for "real reduction" in all classes of naval craft.

It is significant that although the conference is now two weeks old and innumerable hours have been spent in conferences and private discussions there has as yet been little talk of actual figures.

Nevertheless, it is well known that when the appropriate time comes France and Japan are going to demand auxiliary ships greatly in excess of the battleship, ratio. In some categories it is expected they will demand approximately equal strength with the United States and Great Britain.

Japan already has served notice in the preliminary conversations that she will demand submarine parity with the strongest. She has indicated that she considers 80,000 tons in underwater craft an irreducible minimum. That figure represents much more than she now has.

What is true in submarines is largely true in other categories outside of battleships.

Jury Finds Columbus Men Guilty of Aaron

LANCASTER, Jan. 31.—Two Columbus men, Arthur and Albert Sisco, are awaiting sentence here today, a jury having found them guilty of arson last night.

They are alleged to have destroyed a house owned by Arthur Sisco, in Clear Creek valley last July. Albert is said to have received $200 for his share in the "house burning act."

Virginia Souters of Washington County, who had previously pleaded guilty on a like charge will be sentenced Saturday with the Sisco brothers.

Criminals must be choiced. Cheap cruminals is as unpleasant as cheap performers.

District Attorney's Office Blocks Freedom of Men

Accused of Violating Jones "Five and Ten" Act

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—There's more than one way to kill a cat, and incidentally the United States attorney's office here has inaugurated a unique practice in prosecutions under the Jones "five and ten" prohibition act.

When a petit jury acquitted Irvin Rosenberg on a charge of violating the Jones act, Assistant District Attorney Walter M. Egan refused to try another prohibition case before the same

Two Accident Victims Show Slight Improvement

Mrs. Otto Hart, 21, of 104 Edwards st., sustained a fractured skull when she walked into the path of an Erie passenger train at noon yesterday.

Delmore Ault, 11, of 304 Forest st., sustained basal fracture of the skull while coasting Wednesday night.

Church Standards Are Discussed by Evangelist

Dr. John Owen conducted the revival services at Calvary Evangelical church last night on the subject, "The Spiritual Standard of the New Testament Church."

In his sermon he said: "Some of the indications of the spiritual condition of this New Testament church were: they were the children of God by regeneration, they were the elect of God through saving faith in Jesus Christ, they had become followers of the Lord, they were called into his kingdom and glory and were recognized by Paul as believers and children of light."

"In order to bring about the salvation of lost souls, the church must be sanctified. This is provided for every one of God's children."

The services will continue tonight.

SCHOOL GIRL KILLED

DELPHOS, Jan. 31.—Injuries which she sustained when the automobile in which she was riding overturned, today had proved fatal to Leona Briggs, 16-year-old Delphos high school student. The accident occurred near Van Wert late yesterday when the car struck a pile of stone.

To clean furniture and woodwork, wipe with a "chamois" that has been wrung out of "kings" and warm water. Then polish with soft cloth. This same method can be applied to windows, mirrors and tiled fireplaces.

Township Officials Oppose Bender Legislature Plan

Marion County Represented in Action Against Reapportionment Proposal Taken at State Meetings: Assort Large Cities Would Be Placed in Control

State Senator George Bender's reapportionment proposal, licensing of school bus drivers, licensing of dance halls, poor relief, and the tax limitation amendment were among the topics covered in 10 resolutions adopted by the State Association of Township Trustees and Clerks at their second annual meeting at Columbus yesterday, according to Walter Williams, of Claridon, president of the Marion county branch of the state association.

The state association of trustees and clerks will oppose Senator Bender's proposal to reapportion members in the state legislature, according to Williams.

Reasons for Opposition

The township officials are opposed to the Bender proposal because it will deprive the rural sections of territorial representation in the legislature, according to Williams.

"At present we have territorial representation in the house and representation according to population in the senate," Williams stated today. "Under the Bender plan territorial representation would be done away with and members of both houses of the legislature would be selected on a basis of population only."

Williams stated that if the Bender proposal were placed in the state constitution Marion county would lose its representative in the lower house of the general assembly and would be represented by a single legislator.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—Nations of the world linked in a single language.

This possibility received serious consideration today after two noted telephone authorities, Bancroft Gherard and Dr. Frank B. Jewett, presented it might come about, while addressing the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

Transatlantic telephone conversations, radio and the talkies are new factors which tend to increase the need for a universal tongue, they pointed out.

German Planes May Fly into Poland

BERLIN—An agreement making possible an airplane service between Germany and Poland will, it is expected, soon be ratified. This will make it possible for the German Luft Hansa to fly the route between Berlin and Warsaw and the Breslau-Warsaw route, heretofore flown by the French planes, will probably also be included. Heretofore German planes have not been permitted to land in Poland.

HOOVER URGES USE OF STAGGER SYSTEM

President Makes Move To Eliminate Traffic Congestion at Capital

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—President Hoover has admitted for consideration to the heads of the government departments the suggestion that all departments use the "stagger system" for opening and closing of Government offices in order that traffic congestion may be relieved to some extent.

The scheme which the president suggests was used during the World War with great success and although restoration of the system has been discussed at various times this is the first official recognition that has been taken in the matter.

President Hoover recommends that one third of the Federal employees report for work at 8:15 and depart at 4:15 o'clock; another third would report at 9:00 and conclude at 4:30 o'clock and the remaining third would begin at 9:15 and finish at 4:45 o'clock.

Many Modern Fashions Had Origin in Orient

CHICAGO—Where did Madam Zett that low cut necked dress? No, it isn't where you think—but China.

Dr. Bernhard Lanfer, curator of anthropology of the Field Museum, after extensive research, announced that many of our modern styles did not originate in Paris or the fashion centers of the world, but from the Orient.

The low necked dress, cut like that worn by modern women, actually originated in China more than 1,300 years ago, Lanfer reported. Lanfer has produced for the Field Museum ancient prints depicting low necked dresses.

To express a minority invariably makes it grow larger.

Italy Becomes Leading European Radio Factor

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Italy became the leading factor in European broadcasting when one of the most powerful stations in the world was inaugurated with a program from the famous La Scala opera house in Milan. The opening broadcast was personally directed by Pietro Mascagni, the noted composer of the opera, Cavalleria Rusticana. The transmitting plant of the radio station is located in Santa Colomba, a little suburb outside of Rome, and is connected by direct wire to the studios in the heart of the Italian capital.

The new super-power radio station was designed by and installed under the supervision of American engineers as part of a contract under which the RCA Victor Co. sold the entire operating equipment to the Radio Italiano Audioloni Radiotelevisi, the Italian broadcasting company. Programs of entertainment and news bulletins are to be broadcast regularly and it is expected that the strong voice of Mussolini will be heard regularly in public messages.

THE new Radio-Roma station represents the last word in broadcast transmitter development according to RCA Victor Co. engineers and embodies four outstanding advances in American radio technique which leads the world. While the new station is rated at 50 kilowatts in the antenna, by means of a new technique described as 100 per cent modulation the station is capable of reaching a peak of 500 kilowatts output during transmission. In addition, new mercury vapor rectifier tubes for high voltage rectification increase the operating efficiency, and effect a saving in energy of from 35 to 40 kilowatts over the ordinary type of vacuum tube rectifier. The Radio-Roma station is the only one outside of the United States to use 100 kilowatt transmitting radiotrons. These are the largest vacuum tubes in commercial use. The fourth feature is a system of constant frequency regulation which keeps transmission steady on the desired wavelength without the usual deviation, through crystal kept in a special temperature-controlled oven. The temperature in this oven never varies more than one-tenth of a degree.

The decision to purchase American apparatus was reached after engineers of RAI had made a careful study of broadcasting transmission throughout the world. Alessandro D'Amico, chief engineer of the Italian broadcasting company, visited this country last spring to study American broadcasting methods, and on his departure pressed great admiration for the high standards at which American broadcasting was maintained.

ONE of the best ways to determine the selectivity of a radio receiving set, states J. A. Brown, of the National Radio Institute of Washington, D. C., is to tune in to the nearest high power local broadcasting station, and then observe the effect of slight detuning upon volume. For example, if a single control potentiometer, under test, brings in a local station with the greatest volume with the scale set at the broadcasting station's transmitting frequency in kilocycles, then turn the control knob right and left so that the scale reads 990 and 1010. That is, 10 kilocycles above and 10 kilocycles below the station's frequency. If this is sufficient to tune out the local station, or reduce its volume substantially, this indicates a highly selective receiver.

A moderately selective receiver tunes out a powerful local broadcasting station in 10 kilocycles above and 20 kilocycles below the frequency of the local broadcasting station, while a receiver which requires tuning 50 kilocycles below to lose the signal from a local powerful broadcasting station is lacking in selectivity.

Such a receiver, continues D'Amico, may be suitable for use in a locality where there are few broadcasting stations. But, in the proximity of many stations in a district where a listening set is being used, the selectivity of the set is of great importance. The greater number of broadcasting stations in a district where a listening set is being used, the more important the quality of the set becomes. It is not likely to give satisfaction.

Purdue Wins Overtime Game Battle from Loyola, 25-20

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Jan. 31—An old argument is settled here today with Purdue's 25-20 victory over the Loyola university basketball team.

They are regarded as two of the most powerful basketball forces in this region and last night's game was carried into an overtime session in which Purdue managed to break the tie.

The battle was closely fought throughout.

Purdue stands first in the Western conference basketball standing at present.

Mimes Mystery Play Gives Audience Exciting Evening

"The House of a Thousand Thrills," Made Up of Unceasing Series of Surprises and Blood-Curdling Situations Capably Presented by Cast of Local Performers

BY HALLIE HUCK

Commendations were received from all sides at the close of "The House of a Thousand Thrills," mystery play given last night in Central Junior High school auditorium by the Marion Mimes.

For the second time this year the Mimes greatly surprised their patrons, with an entertaining production presented by a capable cast, this time under the direction of Murray Powers.

There were quite a few "oh's" and "ah's" and a scream or two from the audience of about 150 last night, in addition to the unceasing yells and screams and gunshots from across the stage. Except during the prologue and a part of the first act, the stage was in semi-darkness.

With due regard to their professional friends, The Mymist House of Mimes were pardonably proud last night when one patron said that it was even more exciting than "The Gorilla."

Suprise (Hunt)

The play was in a prologue and three acts, and the end came with a surprise, even to those who can generally "spot" out a play through to the third act after seeing the first few minutes of a show.

Everyone in the cast did his part and did it well, from "Mona Carlton," played by Miss Betty (manager), to "Duke W. Vanlight," a strong man, a burglar who hosted people over man to shelter an early as hitting a pen to a table.

The comedy relief was supplied by the complaining, wailing Aunt Seena, Mrs. Florence Dora, and Paul D. Albert. Vaughn, the dignified, graceful artist who was going to meet the painting of his sweetheart, Mona "The most beautiful thing in Paris."

Capable Character Portrayed

A character part that was full of good lines and clever acting was that of "Mrs. Rachel Carlton," played by Mrs. Frances Hume. In the opinion of her stage children she was an "old pro."

But in the opinion of her audience who refused to let out a single word, howls and muffled groans, and a thunder storm to keep her from helping hunt the thief who stole her "diamonds." The course of "hilarious."

The play had all the tricks of my-

Identify in Doubt

Mona Carlton, granddaughter of an immensely wealthy old woman, knows that the family is plotting to let the famous emeralds, in order to have some dependable man in the house in solving the mystery of who it is that is working for the jewels, she goes to the city and asks "David Arden" Frank M. Barnhill, a noted writer of detective stories, to visit the Carlton home.

Identity in Doubt

Until the end of the play, the audience wasn't certain whether or not the girl who came back in the place of Mona, was really the granddaughter, or an impostor.

When the play ended, "Travers," the Carlton butler, played by A. J. Hoadley, and "Vince," the burglar, were dead or dying, "Miss Betty," the Buddhist servant, a role taken by Miss Louise Noel, had escaped to the night and "Ronald McBride," James Shipley, supposed grandson of Mrs. Carlton, had turned out to be a high class thief from New York, doubling for the real grandson. Aunt Seena was banished from the house by her grandmother because of her despicable part in plotting with the jewel thieves.

A sympathetic part of slanders and suspicion, was that of Miss Arlaine Hume as "Emily Temple," Mrs. Carlton's sister. An equally well done, but less likeable part was that of the snobbish "Anne McBride," a granddaughter of Mrs. Carlton, played by Miss Helen Blitt.

This, it is believed, will have the effect of quieting much restlessness springing from these disappointed sources.

Many Indiana Prisoners Are Mentally Defective

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind.—Nearly one-fourth of the entire population of the Indiana state prison here may be classified as mentally defective, according to Warden Walter H. Daly.

"The matter of discipline in dealing with mental cases is always a difficult problem," Warden Daly said. "The lower the mental grade, the more difficult to conform to the institution rules. They are more susceptible to the influence of stronger personalities and are often the tools of the shrewd, cunning criminals in their plots and plans."

Camouflaged Left-Overs Are Often Much Better Than Original Dish, Cook Finds

Why can't you serve meat the same old way just like the first? The young housekeeper, who has no time to make her own left-over dishes, won't eat the same old rule of changing into a new kind of dish. The purpose of de-camouflaging is to make the food look like a new dish. The fact is that the food is reheated and taste is lost. The first appearance, a piece of lamb, or roast beef, or chicken has a certain line. It is developed during this first appearance and can be enjoyed only once. That particular piece of meat when the meat cools down, he recaptured by a second heating in the same way. In a second similar heating, as in the case of lamb or beef, does any good to improve the flavor.

There are two ways in which to de-camouflage. One is to serve the meat cold, accompanied by a hot salad or dressing. Some people even better cold than hot. The second way is to reheat the meat, when cold and a flavor that is not lost to the hot meat. With cold beef, lamb, veal or fowl, accompanied with olives, pickles, slices of cheese and a mound of mixed salad provide an enjoyable lunch or supper, or a luncheon. It is easy to prepare. This method of de-camouflaging meat also does away with the objection of those who are nervous who simply won't eat meat that has been reheated. Which method has them from the enjoyment of some of the most tasty food which an ingenious cook can prepare.

Because many left-overs are best served completely camouflaged—lamb, veal, beef can be cooked into a delicious meat loaf, or meat to the point of being delicious to the palate, as for one thing.

Meat Souffle
1 cup cold meat or chicken 1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon flour 1 tablespoon onion juice 1 tablespoon chopped parsley.

1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon pepper
1 cup milk
2 eggs

Heat the butter in a saucepan, add flour and gradually the milk, stirring constantly until smooth and thick, then add salt, pepper, onion juice and parsley, and remove from the fire. Add beaten egg yolks and the meat, cook for one minute, then remove from the fire to cool. When cold add the stiffly beaten egg whites, pour into a greased casserole and bake in a moderate oven 20 minutes. It will pull up and be beautifully brown on top, but it must be served immediately, as it falls soon after removal from the oven.

Left-over meat may be combined with other seasonings to make a thick sauce for service with spaghetti, rice, mashed potatoes. This should be cooked and shaped in a ring mould, so that the meat sauce can be poured in.

LINDY FLIES 25,000 MILES WITH SAFETY

Engineers Point to Colonel's Feat as Boost to Airplane Travel

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—Is airplane travel fundamentally safe?

The fatal crash of a Central Airlines cabin plane near Kansas City several days ago and other recent air disasters have caused many persons to ponder this question.

Immense numbers of men and women can be found who will declare that travel by airplane is extremely dangerous. Likewise immense numbers of men and women can be found who will insist that it is as safe as any other modern means of transportation.

In support of the latter opinion, prominent aviation men in New York and other parts of the country today are calling to public attention the truly remarkable record for safe flying made by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his wife, the former Annie Spencer Morrow, since their marriage, May 27, last.

A perusal of International News Service files reveals that during the eight months that have elapsed since their marriage the flying colonel and his diminutive bride have flown approximately 25,000 miles without a mishap.

Their flying, incidentally, has not been confined to tested and established airways, but has taken them over every conceivable type of terrain, from the dense jungles of Central America to the mountainous country of western United States.

The British House of Commons and Labor leaders have endorsed a proposal that one of their number should not offer himself for re-election if he has passed the age of seventy. They seem to forget that many men in this age and in other ages, such as the leaders pictured above, have done much to make their mark in the world even after they had passed the seventy mark.

THREE—SCORE—AND—TEN years! Does the Biblical allotment of years apply to man's capacity for work, or are the hands of age still firm enough to grasp the reins of government and guide the destinies of big business and finance? This problem, which has been constantly argued since first the "too old at forty" slogan was coined, is again to the fore with the news that Labor leaders in England have endorsed a proposal that Mr. Thomas Lewis, the official nominee of the National Union of Tailors and Dressmakers, should not again offer himself for election to the House of Commons, as he has passed the age of seventy.

Although the present House of Commons is made up of men who form the youngest group in English parliamentary history, the political history of Great Britain has been made by men far beyond the seventy mark. Gladstone, affectionately known as the "Grand Old Man," was

Prime Minister three times after he had passed the age of seventy and was eighty-four when he resigned from political life, while his arch opponent, Disraeli, was holding the destinies of England in his portfolio for the second time at the age of seventy. Three cabinet ministers of the present Labor government own up to seventy or more, while the record of the Earl of Balfour, who was Foreign Secretary when he was over seventy, is too well known to need repetition. Sufficient to say that when he had passed the eighty mark he still could give a vigorous account of himself at tennis.

A survey of Wall Street shows that while the younger men participate more freely in active trading, the destinies of the Street are in the capable hands of many elderly men. George F. Baker, at the age of eighty-eight, one of the great powers in the world of finance, and the voice of Rockefeller, although his own is nearly ninety, is still powerful enough to be respectfully listened to when it speaks about matters financial. The financial duties of the Government are in the very firm hands of Andrew W. Mellon, who is seventy-four. In the Supreme Court, Mr. Justice Taft and his colleague, Justice Holmes, are both dispensing sound judicial opinions despite or perhaps because of their age. Edison, still actively engaged in experimental work, is another of the grand old men who stay young and render vital service to their fellow men. And the people of Germany look to an old man, President von Hindenburg, to steer the ship of state into peaceful waters and put Germany on the map again.

The City of London still contains thirty-two churches designed by Sir Christopher Wren, the architect of St. Paul's Cathedral.

POLICE SPREAD NET IN CAB SLAYINGS

Seek Robert Schmidt, Reputed Gangster; Lieutenant Covers Evidence

CHICAGO, Jan. 31.—Police spread a city-wide dragnet today for Robert Schmidt, reputed gangster, whose arrest has been ordered in connection with the murder of Barney J. Mitchell, treasurer of the Checker Taxicab Co., and George Jackson, his chauffeur.

The two men were slain yesterday in Jackson's cab when Mitchell was returning home from an all night champagne party of Checker company officials.

Schmidt, Lieut. John McGinnis said in ordering his arrest, was reported to have been employed by an officer of the Checker organization. McGinnis refused to say what evidence he holds.

Schmidt's police record has thrice linked him with Eugene (Red) McLaughlin, brother of Robert McLaughlin, Checker president at whose home the champagne party was held.

Police believe the assassin for in wait to kill all the departing guests, but Mitchell was the only one who left the rest remaining until dawn.

High Food Value Makes Only Small Quantity Necessary

This year there's a record crop of walnuts. When plentiful and cheap, walnuts slip out of the delicacy and dessert class and can be used where they rightfully belong—as a meat substitute. A pound of walnuts is equal in food value to two and a half pounds of edible meat. Therefore nuts should never be eaten at the end of a heavy dinner, and if they are served as an accompaniment to a substantial meal only very small quantities should be used. The best and the worst of nuts in their prime is that their delightful flavor tempts one to continue eating them far beyond discretion—how often we hear, "I just can't stop eating them." And many who complain that nuts disagree with them are unwittingly mistaken. What they should say is that once they begin, they overeat, with regrettable results.

Nuts are wholesome food to most persons, and those who find them troublesome because of imperfect teeth can enjoy the flavor quite as much by eating ground nuts. Also, some of the substitute-meat loaves are prepared with nut meats.

If the meal is the light variety, pleasant substance can be added by including walnuts either with the vegetables, salad or dessert. Chopped walnuts sprinkled over mashed potatoes, mashed squash or turnips greatly improve these homely dishes. Whole walnuts added to any of the vegetable salads are pleasant—and they should not be restricted to the far-famed "walnut salad" which is merely a combination of apples, cut-very and chopped walnuts on lettuce leaves.

When it comes to dessert, walnuts can be used in an infinite number of ways. Sprinkle chopped meats atop any of the ordinary puddings, like rice, bread, tapioca, cornstarch, just before serving. When baking apples with a spoonful of syrup and a lump of butter will develop a marvelous flavor. Ordinary stewed dried fruit, like peaches, apricots, peaches, are turned into a quite fancy dessert by whipping, piling in sherbet glasses and sprinkled with walnuts crushed or whole. Or a pleasant sweet sauce for puddings, custards or fritters can be made very easily by melting together equal parts of butter, syrup and a few tablespoons of crushed walnuts. Here's something for the vegetarian meal:

Walnut Loaf
1 cup chopped nutmeats.
1 cup mashed potatoes.
1 cup bread crumbs.
1 cup hot milk.
1 egg.
1 tablespoon butter.
1 teaspoon salt.
14 teaspoon pepper.
Let the bread crumbs soak in the milk, then add potatoes and nuts. Other ingredients including well-beaten egg. Place in a buttered loaf tin or mould and bake in a medium oven for 45 minutes.

Here's with a plain tomato sauce, or a cream sauce flavored with a few cashew nuts.

Walnut Croquettes
2 cups walnuts ground fine.

1 tablespoon lemon juice.
1 tablespoon chopped parsley.
1 egg.
1 tablespoon butter.
2 tablespoons flour.
1 cup milk.
1 teaspoon salt.
Mix. Butter, add flour and grade.

ally the cup of hot milk, stirring constantly. Blend together the walnuts, lemon juice and salt and add to the thick sauce with beaten egg, then set aside to cool. Roll into croquette shapes, dip in egg and bread crumbs and fry in deep fat until golden brown.

COLD, WATER'S RUSH CAUSED DIVER DEATH

Body Held at Morgue While Wife Is Cabled of Husband's Tragic Death

MONTREAL, Jan. 31—The body of Peter Trans, the diver who was trapped under the icy waters of an arm of the St. Lawrence river, where he was held prisoner for almost 72 hours, was in a morgue today, while his wife and two sons, who were ordered to join him in Canada this spring, were held at the morgue.

Trans' body was brought to the surface yesterday after divers rushed to the isolated village of Pointe aux Outardes by plane from Quebec and untangled the equipment which held him under the icy waters until he was dead.

Examination of the body showed the whirling currents had caused severe bruising and almost complete suffocation. How long Trans lived after his wife became convinced was not determined.

Trans, working on a paper company project at Pointe aux Outardes, went into the water Monday morning, he was believed to have been taken, and then attempting to get on his feet, had become entangled in his line. An air line was kept free and during the time he was submerged air was supplied him. The extreme cold and the rush of the waters, forcing his body against the line, had caused his death.

Frank, who was 35 years old, came to Canada two years ago from 1906 mark, where his family resided. It was feared he had a premonition that his last job for he told a doctor friend a few days ago:

"I don't like this job, but I never have refused to go down and I don't expect I ever shall, whether I come up again or not."

The friend told authorities today of his conversation with Frank.

BOARD OUTLINES SAFETY PROGRAM

LaRue School Officials Take Action in Safeguarding Busses

LA RUE, Jan. 31—Plans for the safeguarding of children riding in the school busses were discussed at a meeting of members of the school board and bus drivers, together with Houser Aiken, local agent for the New York Central railroad, Wednesday night at the school building.

Following an extensive discussion of various methods of insuring safe transportation and pointing out the dangers encountered in transportation, it was decided to employ a competent high school boy to accompany each bus, who will leave the bus at all railroad crossings and after securing himself that no trains are approaching will signal the driver from the opposite side of the tracks.

In addition to the railroad watchman on duty, the school board will station a watchman at the Main st. crossing of the New York Central tracks during the hours the six school buses cross. The bus drivers will await the signal of this watchman before crossing, it was decided.

Mr. Aiken gave a short talk in which he assured the board members of the cooperation of the railroad company in the safeguarding of the children.

Snowfall Comes with Moderate Temperature Moderate temperatures and snowfall of half an inch marked rather unusual winter conditions in Marion last night. For the first in several nights, the mercury did not drop below the 32 degree mark.

Fair and somewhat colder weather is officially forecast for tonight. Increasing cloudiness and rising temperatures are expected Saturday, according to the weatherman today.

Those who always agree with you, usually agree with everybody else.

Mite-Box Opening Held at Agosta Society Meeting

The semi-annual opening of the mite-box showed that there was $21.05 saved in the six months period by members of the Woman's Home Missionary society of the Agosta church, when they met Thursday for an all-day meeting with Mrs. C. H. Ariz, of near Agosta.

Two comforters were knitted. At the noon hour a cafeteria dinner was served. In the afternoon a program was opened by singing "Rock of Ages." Mrs. Anna Grady read the scripture reading. A leader was read by Mrs. L. V. Wilson, after which Mrs. C. H. Ariz reviewed the chapter in the study book.

The next meeting will be held with Mrs. John Irey, Feb. 27.

Satan smiles when a boy is whipped to make him attend Sunday school. Where there's a will there's a way. There are a lot of disappointed relations.

Early Days of Famous People

ONE DAY, nearly 300 years ago, a group of farmers living around the small village of Woolsthorpe, in Lincolnshire, England, stood marveling at a new device for telling time. It was a water clock and had been fashioned by a tiny lad with very few years behind him. A little later these same farmers saw another bit of the lad's achievements. It was an improved sundial. That little boy was Isaac Newton.

What the small Newton boy had done set the neighbors talking and asking questions. What manner of lad was he? What was he going to make of himself? And then it was that his loving grandmother—with whom Isaac lived in his earlier years, born and his mother having married again—told of the promise that was in him. To the inquiring neighbors she proudly showed clever mechanical devices and handwork of the lad done with the few tools he possessed. And she told, too, of his gift for mathematics.

In the meantime Isaac was following his destiny. He sought truth in the world around him. That was his part in life. Any mystery of nature he came across he counted as a challenge and he accepted it. Even in his play he was the seeker after truth, the deliver into mystery. The force of the wind roused his curiosity and he proceeded to ascertain it by measuring the distance he could jump against it and comparing it with the distance jumped when the air was calm. He introduced kite flying in his study of air currents above. His cleverness with tools was just a manifestation of his bent for mechanics, which, as a science, he later was to carry to undreamed-of heights.

It is notable that in his very early years Isaac Newton was not very zealous as a book student. Left largely to his own mental guidance, he returned to the things around him for observation and study. The forces of nature and mechanical devices of men made up the bulk of study that he found most inviting. In his pursuit of such study he revealed a power of analysis and developed a creativeness and originality of thought that were later to distinguish his work. In the things around him—many of them commonplace—the little boy found problems.

Sir Isaac Newton as a Boy Preferred Science to Farming

Some of these he solved. Some he carried with him into mature years for solution. After a short while of this kind of mental activity, however, little Isaac found his progress hampered by lack of book knowledge and promptly became studious. The great problems that were already beckoning gave the child's mind an impulse towards deep study and acquisition of knowledge that never slackened until he had set many "new highs" for science.

Realizing that he was not intended for a farmer as was originally planned, Isaac's guardians and relatives gave him the benefits of neighbor schools and, at the age of 18, he went to Cambridge University. His discovery of the law of gravity, his solutions of baffling problems on light and color and his achievements in mathematics and mechanics are credits that distinguish him as the man who has, singly perhaps, most extended the limits of the world's knowledge.

So Isaac Newton was born December 25, 1642, and died March 20, 1727. Among his great discoveries was the Law of Gravity. Philosophy—Naturalis. Principia Mathematica was the title of, perhaps, his most important work.

Weather Forecasters

WHETHER the severity of winter is to continue or come to an early close will be decided Sunday, the occasion for the groundhog's annual emergence from his underground abode.

Another old-fashioned idea, but one in which many people have at least a secret faith and belief.

At any rate, there is an inclination on the part of some to put as much credence in the groundhog as in the official weather forecasters. Especially is this true when the government prediction calls for balmy breezes and instead there comes a cold blast that catches citizens shivering in light overcoats or no overcoats at all.

DEGREES CONFERRED ON NINE CANDIDATES

Not Much Change

GROUNDHOG day is not the only February event which makes the month one of unusual interest to Marion residents. Preparations are now under way for observance of Valentine day, particularly among the juvenile population.

Store counters are already displaying fancy art creations to be used in conveying messages of enduring affection, and sales promise to reach proportions proving that this long-established custom is far from danger of losing its voice.

Modern valentines now seen in Marion stores show little change in comparison with those that the parents and grandparents of the present-day youngsters used. There is one innovation, however. It is now possible to buy the materials for making the love missives thus giving boys and girls a chance to put their own artistic temptations to use. This form of valentine is said to be gaining in favor, the thought being that they seem to be a more personal expression when put together by the senders.

KONJOLA DID MORE GOOD THAN ALL ELSE TRIED

Victim of Nervousness and Pain Found First and Only Relief in New Medicine

MR. LEVI HOMAN

"Konjola did me more good than all the medicines I tried put together," says Mr. Levi Homan, 2464 Germantown St., Dayton. "For a long time," he adds, "I suffered from extreme nervousness and pain throughout my body. I was weak, worn out and tired all the time, and kept getting worse as medicine after medicine failed."

"Konjola was recommended to me, and it certainly turned out to be the very medicine I needed," the medicine. "I should have had it in the first place. I took six bottles, and in six weeks my nerves were calm and my appetite fine and I sleep as I should. My work is a joy instead of a drudgery, and all this new and glorious health I owe to Konjola. No wonder this medicine has more than a million friends. I recommend it to one and all, for Konjola is certainly a medicine of performance instead of promises."

Konjola is sold in Marion at Stump & Sam's Pharmacy and by all the leading druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—Ad.

Should the London conference end before the close of February, as Premier Chamberlain of France predicts, it's going to prove an awful blow to that portion of the American delegation which is getting the major share of British press publicity. The daily first-page position accorded the stenographers and the attention they attract on London's streets manifestly is not unappreciated by them.

Great Britain demands that the League of Nations take action to settle the "Walling Wall" rights down there against the possibility of a recurrence of the recent outbreaks in Palestine. Can it be that John Bull does not appreciate the fact that the trouble down there demands more than an exposition of theory?

"And now it develops that the city of New York issued pension checks from September in 1921 to April in 1927, inclusive, aggregating $1,051, made payable to a retired assistant foreman in the water department who died in April, 1920, some party or parties unknown having forged his endorsement and cashed them. Little wonder that the cost of running New York City runs into colossal figures, in the face of criminal negligence, or graft, such as that.

Speedy and Sure Justice.

London cables report that great surprise was expressed by various members of the American delegation there in connection with the five-power naval conference over the shortness of time which elapsed between the discovery of the swindle by which Charles Hatty and his four companions bilked British investors in securities out of $522,000, and the date of his sentence, which has also been the subject of much editorial comment over here.

Hatty was given three sentences, to run concurrently, aggregating twenty-one years—one of fourteen years, the maximum for forgery; one of five years for defrauding, and one of two years for conspiracy. Three of his companions in the swindle were given lesser sentences and the fourth, an Italian, escaped trial and sentence, by fleeing to Italy, where he is safe from extradition.

The five attempted a great merger which, had it gone through, would have given them immense riches and made them masters of the British steel industry. Seeing that the merger was likely to fail owing to lack of funds with which to handle it, they resorted to the issuing of fraudulent trustee stocks of which they disposed and realized thereon $522,000 as stated.

Over here months probably would have elapsed between the start of the investigation and the calling up of the matter for trial, and it would probably have dragged along in the court for many months more, and possibly for years. Over in England the time elapsed between the commission of the crime and the pronouncing of sentences was but a few weeks, and its action is final.

The difference in the methods of the procedure over there and here at home is chiefly this. In England the aim of the court is to see that justice, in enforcing the law, is done alike to the people, as represented by the government, and to the accused. Under the English procedure, care is exercised that justice is not done the accused, but at the same time he is not permitted any advantage over the public against which he has offended. His advocates may invoke the law in his behalf, but they are not permitted to evade it through the invoking of almost countless technicalities as is the case over here. That's the situation. The English practice is to enforce the law; over here the practice is to seek to evade it, and practices almost without end are employed by attorneys here which would not be tolerated for a moment there.

There the course of justice is alike speedy and certain; here it is the exact opposite, with the result that there is a minimum of crime there and a maximum of crime here.

Indiana Flood Sufferers Many.

Asiators living over the flooded districts of southern Indiana yesterday estimated that not fewer than 1,500 residents were impounded in their homes by the high waters, and some of the alarm expressing their apprehension that when the waters recede it will be found that many have died from cold and hunger.

Those having such forebodings state that a few days ago, it was the exceptional house which did not show smoke coming from a chimney or people waving to them from second-story windows as they flew over it, but that now many of the flooded homes show no smoke or other evidence of habitation, the inmates no longer appearing as planes approach.

On the other hand, many of the alarmen take a more cheerful view, explaining that it is very possible that the people in the flooded districts have become used to the presence of the planes in their vicinity and no longer appear at the windows to wave at them. In other words, their view is that the novelty of their appearance has worn off. They explain that, while the residents may have been unable to gather a sufficient supply of fuel to keep their fires going, it is hardly probable that they failed to get together a sufficient supply of food when they were riding the waters and realized that they were sure to be cut off from the outside world.

It is to be hoped that the view of this more optimistic element of the alarmen is the correct one. While there is a strong possibility that there will be some loss of human life as the result of privations suffered, it is to be hoped that the fear of the possibilities of death will not be realized. It is harrowing to think of the hardships to which the residents of the flooded districts have been subjected and the suffering which they must have endured, without contemplating the possibility of life loss.

So far as press reports go, there have been no currents of sufficient strength to sweep homes off their foundations and carry them away, as has so often been the case in floods in other sections of the country, nor has there been press reference to a depth of water sufficient to submerge homes. True, the temperatures out in Indiana have been much lower than those which have marked flood times which are so comparatively common in the southern states drained by the Mississippi and its tributaries, but aside from that conditions certainly have been better out in Indiana than those which have attended many far worse floods further south which subsided without exacting any considerable loss of human life.

Susan Lawrence says that "women are all powerful if they choose the weapon God has given them—the tongue." Possibly so, Susan, but isn't it a rather low-down trick on your part to let mere men in on a plan of aggressive warfare possible of adoption by your sex?

A year public was created in the Mexican chamber of deputies when a pistol in the belt of one member was exploded as he was embraced by another member. It may be just as well that our federal law-makers have not taken to the Mexican legislators plan of going "hooded," considering the temper some of them occasionally show, especially in investigating committee sittings.

Frank H. Simonds is of the opinion that the London conference will result in higher naval limits for Japan, France and Italy.
Well, wasn't that their purpose in going into the conference by which this country and Great Britain plan to help each other to reduce their fleets in the lines they deem least valuable to them?

South Africa is preparing to shut out aliens with a quota law, but it's hardly likely to cause the hubbub in Europe attending the following of the same course by the United States. The reason is that South Africans are not to be moved by propaganda and Europeans know it, and they know also that South Africa is free from international such as we have here, who would betray their own land for the benefit of other lands.

London Punch is to issue a monthly edition produced by the Braille system for the use of the blind. The plan shows unexpected initiative on the part of Punch, but it's simply awful to contemplate what may be the result of this suddenly exposing the poor unfortunates to the Punchian humor.

Attorney General Mitchell so positively declines that secret service men from the department of justice are trailing Senator Borah that, were the Hon. William one of those law-makers dry only when voting, we would be inclined to believe that he had been seeing things.

"Better a hundred times the mistaken intensity of the bigot," says the Rev. Albert Parker Fitch, "than the vacuous intolerance of indifference." Some words, all right, but so far as the average citizen who is not a bitter partisan is able to observe, the intolerance has been almost entirely limited to the ultra-zéalous on both sides rather than to those comparatively indifferent to the "mob experiment."

The alcoholic death rate among the 19-000,000 industrial policy-holders of a prominent New York life insurance company was six times in 1929 what it was in 1928, and 62% of the 641 deaths from alcoholism in 1929 were among the 17,500,000 policyholders in the United States, only eleven being among the 1,500,000 policy-holders in Canada. There "ought to be a law" con-pelling the gentlemanly bootleggers to handle better goods.

The cables tell us that London is amazed over the fact that the members of the American delegation to the five-power conference refuse wine at the public functions in honor of the various delegations. Maybe so, but it is a cinch, just the same, that London's present amazement, real or pretended, is nothing to what its voiced amazement would have been had they partaken of wine.

THAT AWFUL AFTER EFFECT.

Make Most of Your Vision.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

There has been great progress in the past twenty years in reducing blindness in America.
The National Society for the Prevention of Blindness has been carrying on a most laudable work in the prevention and cure of blindness. An attempt to eliminate the principal diseases causing blindness and to reduce the enormous number of eye injuries in industrial life have resulted in a great reduction in blindness.

We must begin with the youngest infants in care of the eye. One of the commonest causes of blindness in the past has been the "core eye" of babies, or "ophthalmia neonatorum," as the doctors call the disease.

In most states there are laws requiring all doctors, nurses or others attending the birth of infants to care for and treat the eyes of infants at birth. As a result, this disease has diminished yearly as a cause of blindness among those admitted to schools of the blind. It is said now to be sixty-four per cent less than in 1908.
Eventually this prolific source of blindness will be overcome.

The public is fast becoming educated to what the care of the eyes means. In our schools, in clinics and institutions for the blind, children are now given eye tests. Children with seriously defective vision attend sight-saving classes. Many of them three or four years of age, are successfully tested for eyestrain. Among these children cases of serious eye troubles are revealed.

Some 202 sight-saving classes have been established in public schools of eighty cities in sixteen states. Here children with little vision are given the same education as other children who have full vision. They are taught, also, how to conserve their remaining sight. Isn't this a wonderful achievement towards better eyesight for the coming generation?

What about your eyes? Are they bothering you? Many people suffer from eyestrain without knowing it.

Eyestrain may cause symptoms far removed from the eyes themselves. One may have a pain in the back of the head or sickness of the stomach.
There may be a headache, indigestion, or lack of ambition to work. Little by little the eyes, instead of the eyeballs and swelling of the lids are all symptoms of eyestrain.

These are symptoms resulting from a need of glasses. It is possible to have eyestrain without having poor eyesight. Some of the best of eyes so far as vision is concerned, may be the ones that are under the greatest tension every minute.

Do not be averse to wearing glasses. If you neglect the eyes, in later years you may have some serious disease of the eyes that will cause you to regret that you did not take every precaution when young.

Those of us who have normal eyesight are filled with awe for the unfortunate ones who must be blind. The life of Helen Keller is one of the most inspiring stories in the world today. Here is the story of one who has made the most of all the other faculties when that of sight is gone.

Do not take your good eyesight for granted.
Make the most of your vision and give your eyes the care and attention they deserve. Copyright,

CLASS ENEMIES IN RUSSIA.

In Soviet Russia the "declassed" population consists of employers of labor, private traders and ministers of religion, who are deprived of political rights and the normal civic privileges—education, housing, medical service and the various forms of social insurance. It has been estimated that between one-third and one-half of the Jewish population of Russia, as consisting of former bourgeois who have not succeeded in obtaining a foothold in the proletarian scheme, is thus de-classed. The size of Russia's peasant population is now to be enormously increased, it seems, by the addition of several million kulaks, or so-called "rich" peasants, against whom the Soviet government has proclaimed a war of extermination.

When it was first reported from Moscow that kulaks would not be permitted to join the collective farms now being rapidly organized, it was suggested on this page that this bar perhaps applied against the rich peasant only as a rich peasant.
If he voluntarily divested himself of his superfluous property or was divested by the government and changed into a poor peasant, his disabilities would cease. This interpretation Mr. Durants now describes as "charitable." The fate reserved for the rich peasants is much more severe. They are being expelled from the collectives if they manage to join surreptitiously. A writer in the Red Star declines to worry about what becomes of the kulak when he has been "liquidated" as a class.
"Let him fall under the first automobile or spend the rest of his life in exile." Only the voice of Kropotkin, the widow of Lenin, has been raised in protest, and that in behalf only of the children.
She thinks it wrong when the kulak has been deprived of his land that his children should be expelled from the school as children of a "class enemy."

Nevertheless, quite aside from the fact that there are not enough automobiles in Russia for several million kulaks to throw themselves under, it is hard to believe that the Soviet government has actually adopted a policy involving the death by starvation of several million peasants and their dependents. As Mr. Durants's dispatch of yesterday goes on to show, it is not so bad as that. The former kulaks are to be permitted to work in factories, in the lumber and construction camps.
In other words, they are to be exterminated as a class, as individuals converted to proletarianism they are to be permitted to live, except for the casualties involved in the transformation. Of additional significance is Mr. Durants's statement that the liquidation of the kulak class will probably be a gradual process. This is somewhat reassuring because of the extremely flexible meaning attached to the word kulak by the Soviet government. It really means an opponent of the government. A poor peasant becomes a kulak if he lives up with the opposition. Under new conditions the reverse is considerably true. A rich peasant by divesting himself of his offensive possessions in time and automatically reducing himself to a poor peasant may conceivably win forgiveness—and admission into the collectives.

Prudential considerations may also militate against turning several million dispossessed peasants adrift, embittered and desperate. Their presence in the lumber camps or road gangs would introduce a doubtful element in what is now a showcase of Soviet authority.—New York Tribune.

ABUSE OF THE AIR.

The radio is a wonderful device, as an aid to navigation, a means of instantaneous communication around the world, a disseminator of errors and music and information; but it lends itself easily to abuse. Some of the evils to which it has been made heir can be eliminated by regulation. Others can't be. When one-half of the family turns its back to a radio for the other half by turning it on only what he wants to hear on, whether he care for it or not, a situation is created that admits of only domestic solution.
When public places to which the manner of probing comes people of various minds and tastes from time to time to resort are filled with radio-sounds dispatched by one ferocious and picked from the list of programs by another a public inconvenience is created. The interlarding of a Chopin symphony with the music of the latest hit parade on the market is merely a provocative bandage.

A nation with the genius to perfect and use the radio ought to have genius enough to prevent its becoming a nuisance, but unfortunately those who have conspired it are inflexibly remote from those who have been injured. A mechanism that has caused so much damage to human nerves, at its present rate of use, will be when it grows up, a holy terror unless our national insanity for abuse is curbed.—Detroit Free Press.

Or Any Other European Goal.

Colonel Lindbergh may have been the first person to reach a "goal," home in the United States; but he is still the only person who has made a non-stop solo flight from New York to Paris.—Chicago Record-Herald.

The Dawn Man.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

A vast mass of observations, discoveries and researches since the days of Lamarck and Darwin is already causing a modification of the scientific views of those two great scientists. Both Lamarck and Darwin entertained an "eye-men" hypothesis, based upon the closer approach of the anthropoid apes to man than that observed in any other group.
This working hypothesis was advanced for many of any positive data. According to Henry Fairfield Osborn, a vast quantity of new data accumulated during the past century now compels the substitution of a new hypothesis for the formerly and firmly supported hypothesis of Lamarck and Darwin.

For example, to show how strong is the old Lamarck-Darwin hypothesis, one need only quote the words of Sir Arthur Keith, spoken in 1927 before the British Association for the Advancement of Science:
"All the evidence now at our disposal supports the conclusion that man has arisen as Lamarck and Darwin suspected, from an anthropoid ape not higher in the zoological scale than a chimpanzee, and that the date at which human and anthropoid lines of descent began to diverge lies near the beginning of the Miocene period. On our modest scale of reckoning, that gives man the respectable antiquity of about 1,000,000 years."

Osborn has recently questioned this strongly entrenched view. He says: "As Quaternary fossil man was the central biological contribution of the present century, so Tertiary man constituted the goal and peak of biological discovery in the twentieth century." Ten years ago, Osborn predicted that the greatest surprise in store for twentieth century science would be the discovery of a large-brained Tertiary man. This discovery has unexpectedly been made, for the paleontologic evidence supports the conclusion that Eoanthropus, the "dawn man" of Sussex, is of Upper Pliocene or Tertiary age.

The gist of the discovery, as stated by Osborn, is the main evolution of the human brain took place during antecedent Tertiary time and not, as formerly supposed, during the Quaternary age of man, or glacial period.
The significance of Osborn's new theory regarding the "dawn man" is in the denial of the Lamarck-Darwin hypothesis that man once passed into highly specialized adaptations attained by the Miocene apes. Osborn would separate the human stock at a relatively earlier pre-Miocene period of anthropoloid evolution.

Osborn's new hypothesis would carry us into a geological antiquity hitherto undreamed of. An immense time, far greater than formerly believed, is requisite to explain and account for the natural evolution of the human brain. In the embryonic human hand, there is no evidence of having passed through an anthropoid ape limb-grasping stage.—Copyright, 1930, International Feature Service,

A blind struggle is waged against the "Satanic cleverness" of the unknown murderer within the household to prevent the second crime. The story of these thrilling hours is so vividly complete that nothing need prevent the reader from hearing Jeramiah himself to the solution, nothing, that is, except the sheer impossibility of laying aside the book before the end. Trent, in an effort to avenge himself on his sister, keeps his lovely niece a prisoner in Carlstone house, and when he leaves on a trip to India has her committed to an insane hospital. His treatment might easily drive her to murder him, but why not David Trent, whose career as a broker is ruined when Malachi corners the market on Galena-copper?

THE novel is the winner from a large field in the $7,500 detective-mystery novel contest conducted by Stokes Co. in combination with Samt Set, McClure.

ISAAC BRIGGS MYERS, is Mrs. Clarence G. Myers, and lives in Swarthmore, Pa., with her two small children and her lawyer husband. This prize winning story is her first novel.

Dutton's Name
Prize Book

IN THE little town of Pawlet, nestled in the green embrace of the Hudson river country, Alice Deal, Parson's new story, "John Merrill's Pleasant Life," proceeds with detachment and dramatic insistence toward an indeterminate but thought-provoking conclusion. Pawlet was a dead town when Thomas Castle invaded it and made it his own, and Castle himself was equally faded and dead and the end of things when he summoned young John Merrill to his machine shop in the hills with the hope of making him his successor. He had selected Merrill for the post in a quixotic moment, he remained for him to determine the wisdom of his selection. Whether Merrill would one day be capable of taking over the great Castle establishment is the heart of the story.

The John Merrill who gives his name and his identity to the story is an American of a commoner kind, but a kind most sorrowful. A New England farm boy by birth he has the sturdy virtues and the emergency resources of his people; he will survive disaster, half by his granite qualities and half by his wit. But his education of a tender and alien order and noble letters, enlisting his devotion, serves only to dull his inherited commercial usefulness. Doubtless this defect is the ever-present woman. Not the same one, but a new one.

The book, published by Dutton, Feb. 4, is their prize selection for the month.

"Mammon" Is Murder
Story by Wrenn

A MURDER mystery that grips the attention and keeps the reader guessing is told by Percival Christopher Wren in "Mammon." A final confession, given fabulously on the hot African sands, brings a surprising solution. An idyl of youth and love at the seaside ends in a tragic courtroom scene, a tense murder trial. The story revolves around a mysterious stock trunk with gruesome contents; about a sensitive young man and a glamorous, romantic girl; about a too-good woman and a fate that were its fantastic threads into a haunted house.

"Journey's End"
in Novel Form

"JOURNEY'S END," the play that is sweeping the world through the deepest feeling of men and women of every nation has been made accessible to a wider reading public by recasting in novel form. Mr. Sheriff himself, the author of the play, has done the novel with the help of his friend, Vernon Bartlett, the novelist, who, also, lived through the experiences. Mr. Sheriff has illuminated and immortalized in his play.

The novel draws largely, as did the play, on R. C. Sheriff's private diary, which included his first 10 days in France, most of which were spent in the front line trenches. In June 1916, as a second lieutenant in the Ninth East Surrey, Sheriff, then 34, was ordered to join his regiment. From then right through the war he was in action. It was while recovering in the hospital, from shell fragment wounds that he drafted his diary and first got the idea for "Journey's End."

Percival Wilde
Joins Novelists' Rank

PERCIVAL WILDE has chosen to call his new book, to be published this spring, "The Devil's Booth." Molly May knew what she wanted and stopped at nothing to get it. She climbed to social eminence, an ambitious, unusual young woman, whose intentions never faltered, to her all life was a parade. She was born in the slums, but she decided to lead the social procession. Her first real lover liked her respectability. Her husband thought she was deep, mysterious. There were people who remarked on her lack of culture, of polish, but no one cared to risk her displeasure. The book is the first novel of the distinguished playwright.

Woman Wins German
Literary Award

THE Kleist prize for 1933, the most important literary award in Germany, was given to Anna Seghers for her novel, "The Revolt of the Fishermen." Longmans, Green & Co. will publish the book this spring in a translation by Margaret Goldsmith. In the past, writers of such distinction as Arnold Zweig, Fritz von Unruh and Leonhard Frank have received the Kleist award.

Broadway Tells of Broadway

"HERE'S TO Broadway," by E. T. Devine, is being published this month. Mr. Devine is a dyed-in-the-week Broadwayite, and descendant of an old Knickerbocker family who has always maintained Broadway's old glow. His book is comprised of a series of sketches which tell the history of the most famous street in the world; and which supply the key to many of the activities of modern Broadway. It is crammed with anecdotes of the past, and intimate stories of the great Broadwayites of every age.

Translation Tells of Oriental Life

"Voyages en Orient," the great prose work of Gerard de Nerval, friend of Gautier, Dumas and Victor Hugo, has been translated into English by Conrad Elpin. It will be published in the spring by Harcourt, Brace & Co., under the title "The Woman of Cairo; Scenes of Life in the Orient."
